

THINKING AND WORKING POLITICALLY (TWP) CASE COMPETITION

USAID Bureau for Democracy, Human Rights, and Governance

TWP CASE COMPETITION

- Are you Thinking and Working Politically (TWP) in your Activity?
- Have you adapted strategies or activity implementation based on ongoing learning around the political and social context (such as a PEA)?
- Does your team perform contextual analysis of governance or organizational problems on your projects?

The first TWP Case Competition aims to capture real-life case studies of USAID staff and implementing partners using a TWP approach for organizational learning and better development outcomes. This is not a call for traditional success stories; we want to hear what's working well, what you're struggling with, and what you've learned along the way. It can be about something big and formal (like a formal 6-week political economy assessment at the country level) or about one small and informal practice (one-on-one interview with a local government official) that made an important difference for your work.

Your case submission will showcase your team's innovation and expertise, helping us all move the needle on strategic collaboration, continuous learning, and adaptive management. All case study finalists will be featured on DRG Links, USAID Learning Lab, and may be shared via communications channels such as a blog and on LinkedIn.

Submissions must be received by 5:00 PM EST on January 19, 2024. All information about submissions, including FAQs, can be found here: <https://www.drglinks.org/twpcases>

NEXT STEPS

To submit your case, follow the QR code here and either:

1. Complete the online submission form.
2. Complete the fillable PDF form. Be sure to download it rather than completing it in your browser. If you complete it in your browser, the information will not save. Be sure to upload a photo before submitting your form. Email your completed PDF form to twpcases@pseisc.com.
3. Complete either option 5:00 PM EST by January 19, 2024. You will receive automatic confirmation that your case was received.

We welcome questions, contact: twpcases@pseisc.com

This case competition is managed by USAID's Bureau for Democracy, Human Rights, and Governance through the Private Sector Engagement Modernization Institutional Support Contract (PSEMC), implemented by Dexis Professional Services in partnership with Acute Incite, LLC. These services are made possible by support from the American people.